PARKING WILL BE SHIFTED THURSDAY IN BUSINESS AREA

Opposite Side of Streets Must Be Used During Next Six Months.

NEW TRAFFIC ORDINANCE

Measure Is to Make Appearance at Regular Meeting of Council on January 13; Number of Amendments to Rules in Effect Are Probable.

On Thursday, January 1, the parking districts in the business section of this city will be changed to the opposite sides of several streets. The thoroughfares affected include Pittsburg, Apple and Peach streets.

Under the present traffic ordinance parking is permitted on one side of these streets for six months and then the opposite side. On July 1, 1925, the second change will take place.

The present rules have been in effect since July 1, 1924, and although some slight revisions are being considered by City Council it will not hold up the change in parking zones.

In Pittsburgh street cars may be parked, beginning Thursday, on the west side instead of the east. Parking in that street is permitted for one hour.

In Apple street the zones will be changed from the south to the north side, and the same will be effective in Peach street.

Council has a new traffic ordinance under advisement and this will probably come up at the first meeting of the body in January, at present scheduled for January 12. A number of revisions are included in this ordinance. It is expected by the city that the new ordinance will be passed and will be in effect by January 1, 1925.

There will be no change in the parking zone in Arch street. Only the east side of this thoroughfare affords adequate parking space and for that reason the change will not be made. There are no stores fronting on the street and no complaint will be heard.

After the change has been made police will assist motorists by advising them of the new zones and seeing that the wrong side of the street is not used for parking. Machines must be parked parallel to the curb, not further than six inches away from it.

Jesus Christ Was Not Fundamentalist, Ohio
Wesleyan Man's View

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—"Jesus Christ was an evolutionist, not a fundamentalist, in the matter of Old Testament criticism," declared Edward L. Rice of Ohio Wesleyan University, who carried the battle between evolutionists and fundamentalists, headed by William Jennings Bryan, direct to the camp of the latter on one of their principal tenets—the literalness of Biblical interpretation in an address on "Darwin and Bryan" before the American Association for the Advancement of Science here today.

Christ was against literal interpretation of the Scriptures, such as Bryan insisted on, Rice said.

jury in the case of "Kid" McCoy, borer, globe trotter and lover of many women, returned a verdict last evening on charges growing out of the death of his last sweetheart, Mrs. Teresa W. Moss, wealthy antique dealer.
When the verdict was brought in, McCoy's composure, which he had maintained during the three weeks of the trial, broke completely. He cried like a baby. "It's not right! It's not right!" he repeated. "I never killed Teresa. She was the only woman I ever loved. I wanted them either to hang me or acquit me. I wanted no

pation of Cologne and allegations of Germany's failure to disarm was voiced by Foreign Minister Strese-mann today in a statement to the Stresemann urged the Allies to negotiate with the German government and warned them not to over-Germany's patience lest the peace of Europe be shattered.

The German foreign minister warned that continued harassment of Ger-Cologne area will mean "bankruptcy of the policy which the Allies govern-

EXTRA SESSION OF CONGRESS IS HELD TO BE SURE

By United Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—There will be an extra session of Congress next summer is the almost unanimous opinion of Senate leaders. The only question is: Will it be called before or after June 30?

The present session has worked itself into a jam which has just about killed all chances of important legislation before March 4.

Republican administration leaders who would have charge of any further efforts for tax reduction believe President Coolidge should wait until about September to call it. It is necessary to check up at the end of the fiscal year, June 30, on how much the Government is going to have left over to reduce taxes with.

several women speakers made pleas that a woman be elected, claiming that for 75 years men have ruled the have suffrage a woman ought to be chosen as president.

Other nominations were made for vice-president, for the committee on legislation and resolutions and the N. E. A. summer convention.

FINDING OF BODIES OF WEALTHY NEW YORKERS IN HOME PROVIDES ANOTHER HOLLYWOOD MYSTERY

By United Press.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 30.— Dead in the bedroom of their Hollywood bungalow, the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Holly of New York were found by the police, who have on their hands today a mystery apparently as engrossing as any in recent history of the famous film colony.

The couple had been dead since Christmas, yet a search of the bun-gallow failed to reveal the manner in which they died. Holly, who is reported wealthy, was 66, and his wife, 56. No evidence of the couple having been poisoned was found in a preliminary investigation.

Mrs. Holly was found in bed, fully clothed, and with the covers pulled closely around her. Blood stains were about her nose and mouth, indicated hemorrhage. Holly was lying on the floor, also fully dressed.
The room was in perfect order.
Christmas packages were stacked around a small tree.

Theodore Covell, of Burbank, a nephew, said the Hollys spent Christmas at his home and they were apparently in good spirits. He accused the suicide theory. A report of autopsy surgeons is awaited, when it will be determined whether the stomachs of the two contain poison.

questions of authorities seeking to obtain a confession.

"God told me to, because they were used to me," she said, when Sheriff Bowyer asked her why she did it.

"They were mean to me after my husband died and I had to go live with them. They wouldn't buy the things my little girl needed and this Christmas they wouldn't let me get her any presents or have a tree for her," she told the sheriff.

not many are raised.

Safety First

An Englishman was teaching a Scotch business friend how to play golf. On the first tee, he poured out a copious stream of instructions and wound up with the fine old maxim:

"But remember, Sandy, whatever you do, keep your eye on the ball."

"I will that," said Sandy, who had just paid a crown for it. "I dinna trust that caddie o' mine at all."

"When your machine broke down in the street how'd you ever manage to get it fixed?"

"Oh, there are always a lot of jacks standing around that want to help."

THE NEXT HOSPITAL MEETING.

To persons already interested in the permanent organization of the largest hospital in Connelleville, the meeting held last night was not yet had their interest in the proposition aroused to the proper pitch, today is not too far in advance of the date to again direct attention to the meeting to be held in the Kiwanis Club rooms, Carnegie Library, on Friday evening.

While the primary purpose is to elect a permanent organization by appointing a board of directors and other officers, one purpose is to test out the sentiment and attitude of the public with respect to the undertaking as a whole. Without the form and degree of interest which can be regarded as an assurance of the community's intention to actively cooperate in the movement to secure a modern hospital here, the first essential to success will be lacking.

People do have an interest in the establishment of a hospital but many are so apathetic that they betray no outward and visible signs of their attitude. The meeting on Friday evening will provide the kind of an opportunity many people need to show that their interest is of the kind that can be translated into action.

It will not be necessary for everybody to come to this meeting with the expectation of being called upon to make a speech, but it ought to be the intention of every citizen to be present that they may join in the selection of the persons who will be entrusted with the highly important duty of administering the affairs of the Hospital Association and establishing in Connelleville an institution for which there is a great public need.

ELECTRICITY ON THE FARM.
The Electric Farm, as a part of the State Farm Products Show at Harrisburg in January, is not intended to serve as a model to be followed in all respects in the installation of electrically operated devices as aids to farm labor.

It is to be gathered more for the purpose of showing the various uses to which electricity can be applied on the farm, not on the supposition that any farmer will find it practicable to install all of the apparatus that will be demonstrated.

While the exhibit will be interesting and instructive, the important thing is that it will show to the farmer first the matter of the cost of power with which to operate electrical devices, and also to know if power generating and distributing companies can and will extend their service so that it may be available in farming communities.

When farmers are assured that such service can be supplied, and the cost is not made prohibitive, they will not be found backward in taking advantage of it. Farmers of today are progressive and do not hesitate to invest in labor-saving devices and implements to the extent their means allow and when the advantages to be gained are a fair measure of the cost.

In the early days of electric lighting in towns the supplying companies had to do considerable pioneering as a means of developing patronage. People could not become customers until the distributing lines were brought within easy reach. In many instances long branch lines were built which, considered as a unit, did not pay the company until long afterward when the number of customers increased and the cost of distribution was correspondingly reduced.

Electric service in the farming districts presents much the same problem today but with the further development that the population is much less dense than in towns, hence the primary cost of line extensions, per customer, will be very much greater. How to make this cost as low as possible is a problem the electric companies will have to solve before there can be a very general use of electricity on the farms. Once the service becomes available it will be found that farmers, like electric customers in the towns, will steadily become heavier consumers of current through the installation of additional apparatus. In this respect the history of distribution in the country districts will, to a very extent, duplicate that in towns where the growth has been very much along the same lines but, of course, in different proportions.

Under the circumstances the electric companies have an opportunity to perform a distinct public service by working out the distribution problem for country districts on such a basis as will make possible the utilization by farmers who, in due course, will be found to comprise a dependable class of patrons.

The reconvening of Congress is almost an unpleasant reminder that Christmas has passed and the receipt of bills for Christmas gifts.

The disposition France is showing to avoid payment of her war debt to the United States will not help to strengthen her credit in the sale of new securities.

With the death toll reaching three within a week it would seem that the open grave holds no terrors to those who continue to brave its dangers.

Agriculture's World-Wide Problem

WASHINGTON, Dec. 30.—It is a very notable coincidence that following the recent conservative victory in England and a similar conservative victory in the United States, the administrations of those two great nations are confronted with much the same problems and are dealing with them in much the same way. For instance, in England, as in the United States, agriculture has been suffering a depression and in both countries the subject was discussed during the campaign. In the United States a revival of grain prices resulted the situation at least temporarily, and there was a slight improvement in England, but in both countries it is recognized that this cannot be relied upon as a permanent settlement of the farmers' difficulties.

President Coolidge sought a solution to the agricultural problem by appointing a commission composed of farmers and others engaged in business closely related to farming, delegating to them the task of securing from the farmers their view of what the government should do to aid permanent improvement in the condition under which agricultural producers operate. The suggestions thus procured will be submitted to Congress for consideration.

In England the minister of agriculture has called upon the National Farmers' Union, the representative organization of farmers, to set forth their ideas as to the nature and extent of aid they think the British government should render. There is no promise in England, or here, that the plan thus arrived at will be adopted, but in such instance, the government is calling upon the farmers to make the first suggestion. After the farmers have made their views known, the recommendations will go before Congress in this country and before parliament in England, where the representatives of all the people will pass upon the merits of the plan proposed.

In England, as in the United States, the head of the government expresses the opinion that relief must come largely through the action of the farmers themselves, with such aid as the government may properly give. The language of the Minister of Agriculture in London would very closely describe the attitude of the administration toward the same problem in the United States. His letter to the National Farmers' Union in England said in part:

"After full consideration, the government came to the conclusion that the right course in the first instance was to invite the industry itself to indicate the measures that would be effective. Those engaged in the industry, and, in their different ways, dependent for their livelihood upon its prosperity, are those who alone can speak with that authority which comes from intimate knowledge of the facts, and, conclusions supported by the weight of their unanimous recommendation could scarcely fail to exercise a great effect upon the national judgment."

"Neither the government nor the nation as a whole is in a position at this stage to express an opinion regarding the degree of assistance that the country might be willing to afford to the industry without advice from the experts of the industry itself, and I may remind you that the reference contemplates not only action by the state, but also measures that might be taken by the industry itself. If, however, definite recommendations are made by the conference which involve state action, it will then be the duty of the government to take such steps as they think advisable to ascertain views of the various political parties and of the country as a whole, with the object of securing that common agreement which would be the best guarantee of permanence."

President Coolidge hopes to submit to the present session of Congress the report of the Agricultural Commission.

otherwise warranted, he will work as a helper. In other words, at no time during the training course shall he be expected to be a total liability to the company.

Effort will be made to place him at a mine supervised by a fair-minded and helpful superintendent and mine foreman, but he may be moved from one mine to another as warranted. While at a union mine he will not be required to join the United Mine Workers of America. On completing the training course he will be interviewed by the general manager or general superintendent and may be assigned to a definite position during the third year, concentrating on the class of work in which he is most interested or for which he seems best fitted but in having some measure of responsibility. At the end of the course of training, the company may rate or place the student or may drop him entirely. The student, in turn, may stay with the company or seek other employment.

At present the student will begin the course of training at a salary of $100 a month, which will be increased at the end of each six months so that during the last six months he will receive $150 a month. The pay during the third year will be the regular salary for the class of work performed. The employer is at liberty to drop the student at any time during the course if he shows a lack of interest in the work, does not perform satisfactorily or does not mix well with the men.

Throughout the course of training, the student will prepare comprehensive notes and follow on closely the practical headings and on many headings indicated in the outline of training.

"A college should teach a young man that his real training begins when he graduates; that in college his mind is trained only to a quicker comprehension of the problems with which he will meet in the course of his practical education; that his examination for entrance to the school of practical education will be at least as severe as his entrance examination to college; that while philanthropy may be business, business is not philanthropy, and that common sense will be one of his greatest assets; that if he is to succeed it will be necessary for him to make many instances to subordinate to practical considerations the theory that he has been taught."

"College graduates have been willing to go into a banking institution, start at the bottom and spend years in working up to the compensation equivalent to that of the inside laborer of a coal mine; into a mercantile establishment to become the head of a department; into a manufacturing establishment to get within sight of the headship of the department; but they have not been willing as a class to start at the bottom in the mining industry and stick until developed into men that any well directed company would feel justified in placing in control of its properties."

"If a college will encourage its mining graduates to follow coal mining, there will be no question that the mining industry will cooperate to such an extent that it will develop its entire official personnel from college-trained men."

The "Training Course in Bituminous Coal Mining for Technical Graduates," as it is to be termed, is designed to accommodate men of good physique and address having had a technical education either at the Carnegie Institute of Technology or elsewhere. The course will extend over two years, or 24 months, and will begin on or about July 1 of each year. A third year will be spent in specialized training. The student will not be bound by contract. While on the training course he will be considered as a student employee, not necessarily, however, a coal loader or machine helper, but in all cases, unless

The officials of the cooperative Mining Course of the Carnegie Institute of Technology will keep in close contact with the student as he is employed by the mining company concerned. The College of Engineering will recommend for the degree of Engineer of Mines any student who has successfully completed the course of training and presented a satisfactory thesis on some phase of coal mining, provided further that he has had two years in responsible charge of work.

At present the State Department of Mines requires that applicants for the positions of mine foreman and fire boss must have had five years experience in the bituminous mines of Pennsylvania. It is believed that this law will be revised, thus giving technical graduates in mining credit for two years of practical experience. This change in the law would allow students completing the training course to qualify for the state examinations for these certified positions.

At the end of the training course, the company will grade each student on the following points: Common sense, energy, initiative, leadership, reliability and general ability. If he has done satisfactory work, the company will give him an executive or operating position in the work for which he seems best suited.

Get Rid of That Backache!

Connellsville People Point the Way.

The constant aching of a bad back. The weariness, the tired feeling; the dizziness, nervousness, distressing urinary disorders—are often signs of falling kidneys. And too serious to be neglected. Get rid of these troubles!

Use Doan's Pills—a stimulant, diuretic to the kidneys.

Hosts of people recommend Doan's. Tals in a Conneltsville case. You can verify it.

E. P. Soles, mason, 301 Franklin Ave., says: "I had considerable trouble with kidney complaint, caused by straining work. I was in a bad position most of the time and it broke down the muscles of my back. I suffered agony from pains which started through my back and my kidneys didn't act properly. I bought Doan's Pills at Morris's Drug Store and they put me in good shape."

Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Pills—the same that Mr. Soles had. Foster-McIlhenny Co., Buffalo, N. Y.—Advertisement.

Imperative of Happiness

All high happiness has in it some element of love; all love contains a desire for peace. One immediate effect of new happiness, new love, is to make us turn toward the past with a wish to straighten out its difficulties, heal its breaches, forgive its wrongs.

We think most hopefully of dispensing change which may well be regarded, most respectfully of others that have passed beyond our reach and will—L. L. Allen.

Returned From Hospital.

Mrs. George C. Cole, Pittsburgh street, Scotland, returned to her home this morning after undergoing treatment at Mercy Hospital, Pittsburgh.

FEATURED IN THE NEWS OF THE DAY.

Below Mrs. Leonard K. Rhinelander & Robert P. Brinell. Below Mr. Oakley G. Kelley & Mildred Kelley.

Mrs. Leonard Kip Rhinelander, whose marriage to a multi-millionaire New York social favorite created a sensation, has asked $400 a month as alimony and $5,000 for counsel fees from her husband, whose annulment action has been filed at White Plains, N. Y. She is former Supreme Court Justice Tompkins' daughter, and her husband, who has been sent to England and the West Indies will prove that she comes of white folk, contrary to Rhinelander's assertion that she is colored. . . . Robert P. Brinell, ear of the Building Trades Council, who served a prison term of almost four years because of the alleged extortion of $1,000,000 from builders, has been released on parole from Great Meadow (N. Y.) Prison, but faces a Federal charge of falsifying his income tax return. He was arrested as he stepped out of prison, but gave bail before a Federal commissioner at Great Meadow and was permitted to go to his home in New York. . . . Frederick and Josephine, Norman, a trip from Vancouver to San Francisco, has turned up safely at Oriskany Field, California, with the explanation that he and his companion were forced to land at Marysville, Cal., by engine trouble. Fear had been felt for the flier's safety. . . . Frequent and happy by name, Norman, was the decision of the jury which had heard evidence in the case of the late California against the ex-fighter, charged with the murder of Mrs. Theresa A. Moran. Word that the jury stood 11 to 1—the decision—ing a woman—for acquittal, heartened McCoy.

Winter Shoes Are Neat, Never Gaudy

Simplicity Is Feature of New Paris Footwear.

Writer Says.

Despite the influx of numerous novelty leathers, the shoe made in Paris is still dominated by kid, and the latter are generally combining the other leathers to the trimmings, says a writer in the New York Herald-Tribune. Bizarre slippers are gradually fading from the picture and the present tendency is toward a neatly designed model which gathers the necessary chic from its own lines. For the morning stroll, the slopping trip and the afternoon tea an unostentatious plain kid shoe is the typical model worn by the smart Parisienne.

A shoe from Perugia, which has attained a strong foothold in Paris, is called La Motte—the sparrow—and has been widely noted along the fashionable avenues in different combinations of kid. The model derives its name from the fourfold sparrow wings with which the outer sides are adorned. The most popular type is almost entirely black kid, with white merely lining and edging the wings. It is smart, yet quite simple, and an evidence of the trend toward simplicity, fewer straps and fewer ornaments.

Julienne, Croco-Pure, Hutter and other ranking shoe designers of Paris show the shoe with less trimming and less cut-out. Everywhere there is evidence that the old buckled and buckled shoe is losing in favor of fastidiously simple models.

The modulations Parisienne has adopted the smart kid of one shade—preferably black, for the afternoon costume, and brown for the street suit. As for the June file, she favors the kid pumps with black or brown vamp and a colored quarter. The colonial type still holds its own and is shown in many models of brown in two tones, with hose to match the lighter color. The recent pump is slightly more formal and is demanding the more conservative shades.

In a word, severity is the keynote of the daytime winter shoe although the evening slipper are quite as fanciful as ever. After kid, which is usually trimmed with patent or lizard, the modish materials for street wear are suede, patent leather, hard and a stamped lamb skin which resembles the latter. The smart evening slipper may be evolved from silver or gold kid, silver or gold brocade, satin or velvet.

Tunic Mode as Varied as Genius of Sponsors

The tunic frock continues to dominate the mode, and understandably, for it is one of those rare fashions which is adaptable to all occasions and to all types. For there are tunics and tunics, from the ultra long and tight, to the equally ultra flounced and flaring.

But without the tunic mode is as varied as the genius of its sponsors. The prominent designer, whose opening occurred recently, showed, we are told, "a very good and simple afternoon frock with a tunic in black crepe split at the sides and at the back and buttoned with a few big buttons. The panels and forearm were bordered with silk braid. A narrow band of crepe around the neck gave a very young aspect to this pretty mode model."

The use of the neckband continuing in a smart effect has been noted. It was a feature of the Jenny collection, according to word received from Henri Pottinger and Paton, too, utilized this theme in many of his afternoon models. Quite often the dress were made in two fabrics, one forming decorations on the other, or one used for the top and the other for the skirt.

Farmer Has Advantage Over Dweller in City

It is a common complaint that the farm and farm life are not appreciated by our people. We long for more elegant pursuits, or the ways and fashions of the town. But the farmer has the most sane and natural occupation and ought to find life sweeter, if less highly seasoned, than any other.
He alone, strictly speaking, has a home.

How can a man take root and thrive without land? He writes his history upon his field. How many ties, how many resources, he has—his friendships with his cattle, his team, his dog, his trees, the satisfaction in his growing crops, in his improved fields; his intimacy with nature, with bird and beast, and with the quickening elemental forces; his co-operation with the clouds, the sun, the seasons, heat, wind, rain, frost!

Nothing will take the various social distinctions which the city and accidental life breed out of a man like learning, like direct and loving contact with the soil. It draws out the potential. It humbles him, teaches him patience and reverence, and restores the proper tone to his system.—John Burroughs.

Hy Meyers Know When to Quit After His Blunder

"The play I always remember best is one that may not seem funny to one who did not see it, especially if the spectator was not aware of what had taken place many times before." Is the way Dodo Parker started the description of the freakiest game he had ever seen.

"I was with the Cubs and Brooklyn was playing in Chicago. Alexander was pitching and had to go 12 or 14 innings to win. The play let in the inning run.

"To properly appreciate the play, I must tell you that Hy Meyers was in the habit of slipping in from center field trying to get a man at second.
I had seen him do it 20 or 30 times, but none of the boys would ever throw the ball to him.

"This time two were down and the score tied when Bob O'Farrell got a two-base blow. Meyers slipped in from center and the pitcher made the toss to O'Farrell. He tried to slide back and hit Meyers low, taking him off his feet.
The ball went shooting out far into center field and O'Farrell romped home.

"Hy never even tried to field that ball. As soon as it whistled by him he made a dash for the Brooklyn bench, leaped high in the air and slid in while the crowd laughed and jeered at him."

A Prayer

By Rev. Alan Presley Wilson (Copyright, 1924, W.C.T.U.)

ON EARTH, we beseech Thee to grant that Jesus the Christ may dwell in our hearts through faith to the end that we, being rooted and grounded in love, may be strong to apprehend with all the senses what is the breadth and length and the height and depth of the love of Christ.

Come into our hearts and dwell and dominate our lives as we enter another New Year and grant that we may live all through this year in accordance with Thy divine plan for our lives.

This we ask in the Name and for the sake of our Savior, Jesus Christ.
Amen.

A NEW YEAR VICTORY

By Katherine Edelman
(Copyright, 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

R. NORMAN TRE-VOR was a tender smile as he emerged from the Carter hospital. A dry, blinding snow was falling and the morning was bitterly cold, but there was a warm glow around his heart that made him insensible for the moment to cold and chill.

Within his soul he felt the thrill of victory, a victory won over the greatest enemy the world knew. For once more his hand had helped to avert the sword of the grim reaper—his skill and accuracy of touch had brought back another soul from the brink. It had been an emergency call this time, a call that came just as the bells were tolling the birth of the New Year with the chances (10) to 1 against winning the light, but again science and skill had added another victory to his long list. George Hamilton would live; his family in the little cottage in Dower street would have him back with them before many days and, in stead of mourning and sadness, there would be joy and happiness in the little home. "Thank God that I was able to do it," Doctor Trevor whispered to the skies as he got into his little car. "It seems like an omen of good to have this happen just as the year was born."

For this time he knew that he had won a double victory. For many years he had tried hard to interest the old and wealthy Mrs. Whitelide in the building of a new hospital for Carter, to be operated along new and up-to-date lines. It was sorely needed in the town and it had been the dream of Doctor Trevor's life since he had come there. Several times he had thought that Mrs. Whitelide was on the point of consenting, but always at the last she had fallen back on the oft-used argument that people were just as well off and got along just as well or better before all these new fadlike ideas were known.

Then last night had come the call from the Hamilton home. For years the Hamilton family had been counted by Mrs. Whitelide as her own special protégés, and she had spoken her mind quite plainly to Doctor Trevor this time: "They say the case is almost hopeless—that there is not the equipment in the old hospital to handle such a case and that he cannot be moved to the city. Doctor Trevor said there was a chance and you were the only one here that could take it. If you succeed, it means the new hospital within the year."

"And as Doctor Trevor drove to his home this early New Year morning, the big building, with all its modern equipment for helping humanity, loomed before him already—a dream building that would soon become a reality.

New Years Customs in Scotland seems to know. The application of the term is in a custom of children to enroll themselves in a sheet and go eve, knocking at the doors and crying "Hogmanny." In response they always get an out cake.

On the Bridge at Midnight

By Marion R. Reagan
(Copyright, 1924, Western Newspaper Union.)

VERY New Year's Eve the old lady came. Haskins had been watching her now for several years. Always about the same time, eleven or twelve, she would come and take her stand in the middle of the bridge looking expectantly down the river. As the "Amalia," an old barge engaged in the Indian trade and scheduled to arrive annually in London on January 1, sailed up the river, she became violently agitated.
When it passed directly under her, she shouted loudly in a cracked, hoarse voice, and tossed a purse down to a certain sailor on the deck who greeted her with wild cheers. She would watch the old boat glide easily up the river till it was out of sight. Then quietly she turned toward the south and walked away.

Now Haskins was a conscientious thief. It was not his policy to rob old women of their purses. The oldest old man of Hyde Park, and the young men, too, were his game. But lately there were too many in the boat now for any profit.
And the newsmen were again here, daily reminding their readers to be wary of pickpockets. People watched one more now and one had to be on one's guard at all times.

Reluctantly Haskins forgot the old field of his activities and went to his room. It was a hard year, however.
What little he picked up from the Christmas shoppers he already owed to friends. He was facing the New Year almost penniless. Then he remembered the old lady and her fat purse. He decided himself for thinking of it—he was a man of principles—but starvation is starvation, and it was New Year's Eve. Tonight she would come.

He concealed himself in an old crawlspace in the masonry. It was a perfect hiding place. He could see out easily and not be seen by anyone.
About midnight he heard the slow, heavy step of the old lady. She passed close by him and advanced a few yards. He emerged from his hiding place and followed about to make a quick grab at her. The old lady turned, and faced him. He composed himself with difficulty, tipped his hat and hid her happy New Year in a weak, strained voice.

"Oh, thank 'ee, sir; the same to you, sir."

"Fine weather we been 'avin'!"
"Fine, indeed. And fine for that boy o' mine when he come in tonight from them 'ot 'eathen places." The old lady smiled. Haskins edged a little closer to her.
"Ain't seen yer boy for some time?"
"Only from the bridge 'ere once a year. Ain't seen him to 'old in my arms since he was a lad o' twelve.
The horses old voice troubled a little—o-l-i-n-o-w broke down. 'An'
'ard life for a lad, that, on them
ships, and no
'omo, and an 'ard life for me what's his lawful mother never to lay an arm on him in all these years."
Here she broke into a heartbreaking sob. "It's a bad 'un I've been, sir. I couldn't let that lad o' mine see his mother was such a miserable old witch. It'd break his 'eart. I got together all I can in the world and give it to him once a year for his 'olden, for the best I can do for 'im. Don't know who he thinks I am. He never troubled to find out. But—'er, 'er, there," she shouted suddenly.

The "Amalia" was steaming up the river. It was directly under them now and a little youth in uniform jumped about eagerly on deck, signaling to the old woman on the bridge. She dropped the purse squarely into his hands.

"Conny for 'er Majesty," called the youth, his gay voice continuing to sound merrily as the barge disappeared up the river.

Finally the old woman turned to Haskins. "Good night, sir, and God bless you in the New Year," she said softly, and walked away. Haskins stood motionless, gazing up the river till the small busy object that was the barge, and a softness in his look in his eye, and a softness in his breath. "T'would 'a been a bad way, that, to begin the New Year."

from the American people who bought Liberty Bonds and now it is up to the Treasury Department in Washington to raise money to pay off those bonds if the French do not. The interest, moreover, must be paid to Liberty Bond holders. Approximately $140,000,000 a year must be raised to pay that interest. Such a sum is big enough, together with the $78,000,000 estimated surplus, to give the American people another 25 per cent reduction in taxes. Apart from the interest some payments on the principal are essential.

The whole question affects the taxpayer vitally because if France doesn't pay, the Treasury Department here must pay, which is only another way of saying the American people must be taxed to pay the French debt.

Officials are careful to say they expect France to pay her debts, that officially she has never repudiated them but they cannot conceal their anxiety lest American public opinion become irritated over the turn of events. And what will happen if it does? What can the American government do? Very little of an offensive character because debts nowdays are neither collected by force nor by economic reprisals. The worst possible effect that can issue from the international debate on the French attitude is a harmful one to the credit of France.

The French are floating loans in the United States and their securities are held by many Americans. If credit is adversely affected, the French franc will be hurt and the French will see the error of their way ultimately just as they did when they refused to adopt a conciliatory attitude toward the German reparations problem. Another Dawes plan may have to be devised to cure the French situation before the acceptance of it is realized there will be some plain speaking from the Washington government and perhaps the American bankers interested in French securities will advise their French friends of the painful effect the French policy is having on American opinion.

Slowly but surely the problem of inter-called debts as well as allied debts to America is becoming the paramount issue and until it is disposed of even the Dawes plan may have hard shodding to France is treating England with the same as she is treating the United States namely, ignoring her war debts.

Unity Fraternity Plays Juniors Here on Friday

The second County League basketball game to be played here this season will be divided out to fans on Friday evening of this week. The Unity Fraternity will play again and the purple and gold team will have a real test this time. The Juniors of Uniontown will be the attraction.

The Junior team came within a few points of defeating the crack Fay-More after giving that outfit a terrific battle. In the opening game here the Unity Fraternity trounced the Legion, also of Uniontown, 42-19.

Many doubted that the Frat was showing its real form that night, insisting to the belief that it was an unrecruited apart. The game Friday will clear this up.

The meeting will bring together the high school teams of Connelville and Uniontown of 1921-22. There are four former county stars in the visiting line-up and all of the local players have been together under the Orange and Black of Connelville.

The game will be at 8 o'clock at the State Armory.

Meyersdale Here Tomorrow To Play High School Team

The Connelville High School basketball team will play the first of three games at home this week tomorrow night. Meyersdale, a town where basketball players seem to originate, will be here for the game. The contest will begin at 8:15 o'clock. The Cokers are ready to get the season under way in real earnest. The outlook for the future is not certain but it is a hopeful one. In the pre-season games already out of the way the locals won three out of five played. On Thursday night the Northumberland High School will be here.

DeMarco Wins 17 Out Of 23 Fights During Year 1924

Seventeen victories out of 23 fights, with four draws and two defeats. That is the record of Caddy DeMarco, Claiborne fighter, for the year 1924. The Italian welterweight established that record during the season that is drawing to a close, fighting the leading pugilists throughout the state and neighboring states. He is billed to go 11 rounds in the final of a double wind-up with Chris Newton, of Toronto, Canada, on January 12 at Slavish Hall, West Side, Connelville. The two battlers met once before in Clarkburg, the bout terminating in a draw.

DeMarco fought at least one battle each month with the exception of July. Before coming here on the 13th he fought on New Year day at Baltimore and has another fight before him on the 15th of next month.

His record for the 1924 season follows:

January 7—Draw, Kld Kaplan, 10 rounds, Pittsburgh.
January 14—Beat Dan Gartin, 10 rounds, Harrisburg.
January 21—Stumped Young Flanize, five rounds, Erie, Liverpool.
February 7—Stumped Frankie Rice, five rounds, McKeesport.

Brownsville Grid Members Honored At Banquet Monday

Every member of the Brownsville Independent football team was presented with a gold football emblem last evening at a banquet given by river town business men in honor of the gridlers who won the championship of Western Pennsylvania. Billy Long, manager of the team, gave out the awards.

Among the speakers was J. M. Palfrey of Adelaide, line-man for the champions, who was given a place on the second all-western Pennsylvania team selected by the Pittsburgh Post-Examiner. He was a member of the Connelville football team last year, and prior to that was connected with the Harrisburg ball club. He played middle field for the Division Independents the latter part of the 1923 season.

Princeton and Yale have met 49 times in gridiron contests. It is the oldest football rivalry in America.

Herb McCracken, aged twenty-five, coach of Lafayette, is the youngest director of a major college in west.

Dickerson Run "Y" Schedules Capstan For Monday's Game

The Dickerson Run Y. M. C. A. cage teams will get into real action Monday night when they meet the fast Capstan Glass dribblers at South Connelville. The girl teams of both clubs will play the preliminary tilt and the boys will battle in the main attraction. The final game will get under way at 8 o'clock.

A captain for both teams will be elected by the members of the "Y" contingents before Monday. James Brown is the manager of the boys while Miss Meredith Robertson is manager of the lassies.

WALTER JOHNSON IS BIG GUY IN FIGURES

Statistician Analyzes Swift Ball of Veteran Pitcher.

The latest fad is figuring out where a pitcher's energy goes. They figure out eating with reference to vitamins, so why shouldn't they figure that a pitcher is stronger than a locomotive?

George A. Luera, senior member of the Luera Brothers firm, who specializes in mechanical shortcuts and statistics, has made a very careful analysis of the fast ball of Walter Johnson, veteran hurler of the Washington team, who just wound up his season by winning the final game of the world series for the Nationals.

The figures were obtained through the aid of advanced calculus, logarithms, and the computer's slide rule. Astonishing composite results were obtained with the energy used in Johnson's delivery.

Luera says: "Combining all pitched balls for the time that this ball plays, it has been in active participation, it is closely estimated that, as a continuous moving ball, it would have traversed with the aid of its curve, the circumference of the earth 24,117,383 times.

If projected into space, assuming the ball of all balls delivered, it would have traversed 974,659 1/2 of the distance between the earth and the moon.

If the kinetic energy of all his pitched balls were combined into one steel ball weighing 7453-10000 of a ton, the impact of this ball on an armored steel plate would have caused penetration to a depth of 841-1000 feet.

If the energy of all pitched balls were combined into a locomotive it is estimated that this locomotive could pull a train of 1,518 heavily laden cars from Africa to Canada in an uninterrupted run of 91-9 hours. Or if the combined velocity and impact were imparted to a ship the size of the Lusitania, it is estimated that this ship could make 182-4 round trips from New York to London in 17-100 days.

Plea to "Hold 'Em" Not Good Advice, Says Wilce

Exhorting a football team to "hold 'em" when it has its back to the wall is all wrong.

Such is the positive opinion of Dr. J. W. Wilce, coach of three champion Big Ten football teams at Ohio State, where he has been director of football for 10 years.

"The plea to 'hold 'em,'" he declares, "is absolutely contrary to good football principles. Even when the ball is on the one-inch line with the opposition preparing to drive over, it is a matter of breaking through and throwing them where they are."

Most spectators, he points out, are interested in football from the standpoint of the offense. Defensive play, he concedes, cannot mean quite so much to spectators but they should realize its vast importance.

"Spectators should realize," he adds, "that a team on the defense can gain ground by throwing back the offensive team for a loss. The 'roster' should bear this in mind."

PERRY WINS THREE; TAKES LEAD IN FAST INTERCITY BOWLING

Perryopolis jumped into the lead in the Intercity Bowling League last evening as it handed the Connelville entry a triple defeat on the Perry alleys. The Manhattan Five was unable to get going and only threatened in the final game when it was ousted out by 17 pins. While this was taking place, Vanderbilt was taking two out of three from Dickerson Run and went into a tie with Manhattan for second place.

Fast bowling marked both games. Perryopolis ran up a high team score of 716 in the first game. The triple victors had an average of 613 while Connelville had 570.

A meeting of the league officials will be held within a few days at which time eligible men from the various towns will be submitted for approval.

The next games will be on Monday night, January 6. There will be no games on Thursday, New Year Day.

The score of the Perryopolis-Manhattan game follows:

Connelville.
Conroy	107	98	89	294
Miller	111	123	111	345
Holland	87	91	93	271
Miller	150	98	130	378

CASEY CLUB WILL OPEN WITH JUNIOR TEAM AT GARDENS

The Casey Club's basketball team will take its first step in the County Basketball League on Thursday night, going to Uniontown to meet the Juniors at that place. The game will offer a fine opportunity for a comparison in the play of the Casey Club and Unity Fraternity-Connelville's two entrants—because on Friday the Juniors meet the Frat here.

The game will also determine to some degree the battle that may be expected at the State Armory on Wednesday, January 7, when the Casey Club and Unity Fraternity clash for the first time in the league. Regardless of what the other clubs in the league do, the "big" games for Connelville will be when the Frat and Casey teams clash.

Hub Purdue, former big league pitcher, is said to be applying for the job as manager of the Springfield team of the Western association.

The National league is forty-eight years old, and the American league, twenty-four years. The first minor league was organized forty-seven years ago.

Dunbar Township High School will have a fast cage team this season. The dribblers have been showing excellent form in the workouts and Coach J. G. Streamer is determined to have a "real" club on the floor.

With the inaugural game about three weeks off, he is sparing nothing to open with a victory. Belle Vernon will be the attraction at the opening game, No. 1 floor. It will be a battle in the Fayette County Inter-Scholastic League.

With Scouting added to the list of schools with whom games are being booked the Red and Black officials are endeavoring to book Monacaen and Uniontown.
